Re: MB Docket No. 10-56

Dear Chairman Genachowski and Commissioners:

Thank you for taking the time to consider public comments as part of your review of the proposed venture between Comcast and NBC Universal. As the President of Junior Achievement of Western Pennsylvania, I have been, and continue to be, impressed with Comcast's efforts in our shared mission to provide every child in our area with economically beneficial educational programs.

As you may know, Junior Achievement's purpose is to inspire and prepare young people to succeed in a global economy. Our message of opportunity, hope, and self-reliance has proven to make a difference in the lives of young people throughout Western Pennsylvania. Comcast's repeated airing of public service announcements calling for JA volunteers has greatly helped recruit and bolster our volunteer ranks. Without Comcast's partnership, it would have been difficult to offer JA initiatives like the Jobs Shadow Program, which helps students appreciate the link between education and future job success while introducing them to new career horizons and providing tutelage in necessary workplace skills. Furthermore, Comcast produced and aired numerous television spots for our organization on Comcast Newsmakers and yearly Local Video On Demand profiles that showcase students "on the job" with Pennsylvania Representative Jake Wheatley, Pennsylvania Senator John Pippy and U.S. Congressman Mike Doyle. Finally, Comcast employees came out in droves to support our annual fundraising Bowl-a-Thon.

In western Pennsylvania where our Junior Achievement organization operates, Comcast provides free Internet/Cable TV to schools or digital literacy programs to help the area's youth develop the skills necessary for the 21st century. This contribution to our education community helps school systems meet current No Child Left Behind standards in addition to the new national Core Curriculum standards being developed by the U.S. Department of Education.

After working closely with Comcast management and employees I am can tell you in no uncertain terms that Comcast is committed to being deeply involved in the local communities they serve. As such, I am confident that this commitment will grow as Comcast continues to develop its businesses.

Thank you again for considering my comments.

Sincerely yours,
